

JOCKY WILSON 90%

Jocky Wilson is one of those very special sportsmen who achieve an almost immortal status in their chosen sport. The "Wee Man's" ability was incredible, a more natural dart player you could not find.

But it is Jocky's nature away from the oche that has forever endeared him to the hearts of the British public.

The fact that Jocky is still one of the most recognized dart figures even after his retirement from the game proves that Jocky Wilson is indeed a sporting LEGEND.

MARTIN ADAMS

After adding the Lakeside World Championship to his CV of tournament wins, Martin 'Wolfie' Adams can now take his place as one of the legends of darts. Captain of England Martin is a true Ambassador of the sport.

Combining the determination to win at the oche, with the matter of a true gentleman away from it.

MERVYN KING

Nicknamed "The King" Mervyn is one of the most consistent darts players on the professional circuit.

Mervyn has had many tournament wins over the years including the World masters in 2004 and the International Dart League in 2005, not to mention world championship runner-up in 2002 and 2004.

DARRYL FITTON

Darryl "The Dazzler" Fitton has been playing at the highest level of darts for many years. In the 2007 International Darts League Darryl entered the record books with the highest 3 dart average in a full televised match, with an average of 113.91. The dazzler has one of the most popular walk-on acts in the game, entering the stage to madness' one step beyond.

GARY ROBSON

Gary is regarded as a fans' favourite with his fun loving attitude off the oche and ruthless presence on it. Nicknamed "Big Robbo"

Gary's best tournament win came in 2005 when he beat Mervyn King in the final of the World Dart Trophy.

JELLE KLAASEN

In 2006, Jelle Klaasen became the youngest player to be crowned world champion.

At only 21 years old Jelle overcame Raymond van Barneveld and secured his name in the record book. Nicknamed "The Matador" Jelle's natural ability is unquestionable and has proved he is one for the future.
